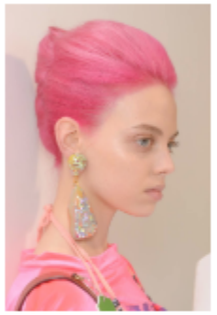
BEAUTY TRENDS

Now's The Time To Dye Your Hair Pink, According To The SS19 Shows



CREDIT: JAMES COCHRANE

As with so many trends, it started at Marc Jacobs. Josh Wood dyed 47 models' hair a range of pastel hues, but the one that went most viral was the peachy candyfloss shade sported by model Mariana Saragosa, dyed by Wood to perfectly match the oversized coat she wore down the runway. For London Fashion Week's Ashley Brown show, Saragosa, along with the likes of Georgia May Jagger and the newly buzz-cut Dree Hemingway, had their hair dyed boldest bubblegum - again by Wood. And at Ashley Williams, the troll-inspired hairstyles lent themselves perfectly to Pepto Bismol hues, with Alex Brownsell of Bleach spraying Jagger's hair a chalky punk pink that perfectly offset the heavy eyeliner applied by Thomas de Kluyver backstage. Even Snapchat has added a new pink-hair filter. If you've ever considered dying your hair pink, it seems now is the time. See the spring/summer 2019 pink-hair moodboard below.

Matte Hair Color Ideas

April 18, 2017 | Hair Color Ideas

Spring is about to end, which means it is the right moment to pick a right hair color. Summer doesn't mean you must go for bright shades if you don't want to. Natural hair colors are still in mainstream and you can wear them in any season of the year. Today's post is also about natural hair color. Have you ever heard about matte lips or nails? Well, now we are going to embrace matte hair colors. Actually what is matte? It is a color out of the shine. This trend came to prove that a hair color can have a cool look even without shine or gloss. Go on reading to see the best ideas that I have selected for you.

Matte Ash Hair Color

First step to get this color is to bleach your current hair color. It is probably the most important step to strip off the hair pigment to achieve the ash tone you want. This tone of ash will be a perfect for those who are comfortable with blonde. By the way you can choose either the deep version of the color or go lighter. Note that ash matte hair color doesn't require adding highlights.

Dua Lipa Debuted GREEN Hair for Her Birthday

She's all about new beauty rules.

Dua Lipa was all about new (beauty) rules for her 23rd birthday on Tuesday, and rang in the big day like we've never seen her before — with green hair.

The "One Kiss" singer celebrated "dancing in glitter with pretty much all of my nearest and dearest," she wrote on Instagram. The theme of the party appeared to be something along the lines of desert music festival meets intergalactic space cowboys, and Dua's outfit was nothing short of on point. She took a page from Kylie Jenner's book of birthday style, and donned a pink sequin body suit and a black leather harness. She topped it off with a green wig chopped into a shoulder skimming bob, and finished the look with a black leather bow on her crown.

Considering Dua is known for her sleek brown strands (credit where credit is due: she was one of the pioneers of the "gloss hair" trend), and it's exciting to see her mixing things up for a milestone event. As for her makeup for the big night, she kept her skin naturally dewy (according to a recent interview with Allure, she's highly committed to her moisturizing routine), and added some drama with an overdrawn cat-eye and matte rose lip.
